New England Institute of Technology to Offer Bachelor of Science Degree in Criminal Justice Technology

WARWICK, RI – Dr. Thomas F. Wylie, Provost and Senior Vice President at New England Institute of Technology (NEIT), announced that effective March, 2011, the Criminal Justice Technology program at NEIT will offer a Bachelor of Science degree in Criminal Justice Technology in addition to the existing Associate in Science degree program. This 18 month program will expand upon the core knowledge and skills attained in the Associate in Science degree in Criminal Justice Technology program.

The Bachelor of Science degree in Criminal Justice Technology exposes students to a more rigorous study of criminal justice topics to include: Case Studies in Criminal Forensics, Domestic and Family Law Issues, Integration of Criminal Law and Criminal Procedure, and Contemporary Issues in Corrections. The curriculum will include classes in digital forensics, domestic terrorism, ethics, financial and white collar crimes, advanced report writing techniques, corporate and private security, and use of force and the consequences. As students work towards fulfilling the program requirements, they will complete a Criminal Justice Senior Capstone Project requiring a presentation to a panel of law enforcement professionals and have the option of participating in a Criminal Justice Senior Externship working with criminal justice professionals in the community. Graduates of this program will be qualified to seek employment in a number of challenging criminal justice professions at both the local and federal level.
